

Public traces of sharing are sparse

Four public traces associated with sharing, without establishing external use. A published address exposes a possible access point; a description provides text for a potential reader. The other tool strata are the comparison group collected the same day.